Success:

To laugh often and much, to win the respect of intelligent people and the affection of children, to earn the appreciation of honest critics and endure the betrayal of false friends, to appreciate the beauty, to find the best in others, to leave the world a bit better, whether by healthy child, a garden patch, or a redeemed social condition; to know even one life has breathed easier because you have lived.
This is to have succeeded.

- Ralph Waldo Emerson

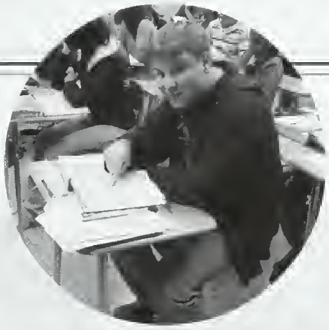
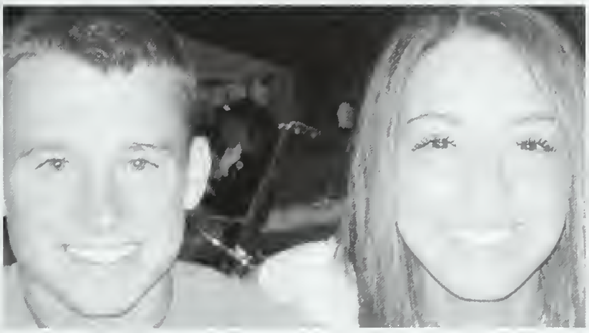
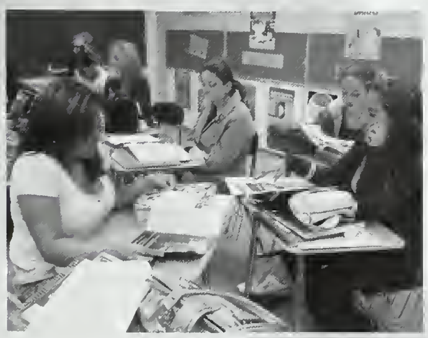
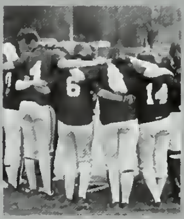
Shoot for the moon. Even if you miss, you'll land among the stars.









COURTNEY CORNING

There's an angel up in heaven,
God took her on His way
He knew that she would be in a better place
To live in everyday

He knew people would grieve,
In sorrow and in pain
He knew she would influence them
And life lessons that they would gain

He put her strength behind us
To get us through the day But what he didn't realize was We never said what we wanted to say

We love you and we miss you
And we know, you would do the same
We wish he never took you
So you could play just one last game

Your presence and your smile Spoke in itself for who you are Who knows what would've happened that night
Have you never gotten in that car

Why so young?
Such a great girl with a big heart
Had we known this would happen
We'd do things different from the start

We think about you everyday
And everything that we shared
One last thing we want you to know We've always loved you and always cared

The only guarantee was yesterday
So live for today
Because you never know what tomorrow might bring Or what it will take away

Deana Manfra

Principal's Message

To the Class of 2007,

Congratulations on completing your career as a Peabody Veterans Memorial High School student. I hope that you will look back on your years at PVMHS as fondly as I will. The list of accomplishments for your class is certainly too long to list on this page. But inside the classroom, in the athletic arena, and lending a helping hand with community service projects, your class took a back seat to no one.

In closing, my lasting memory of the class of 2007 will be of how you pulled together during the tragic loss of your classmate Courtney. You learn a lot about a person or a group of people during a difficult time. What I learned about all of you is that you have that rare combination of sensitivity and resilience that will ensure your success well after you exit the halls of PVMHS. I know that the accolades for you will be many. Whether you are off to college, a career/technical school, the work force or the military, I wish you the best!

Sincerely,

The Role of the Coach in Promoting Sportsmanship

A coach is a role model to players young and old.
Every coach has a lesson to teach,
and story to be told.

They show you the correct manners on the field or on the court, and whatever the outcome of the game, you must always remain a good sport.

Coaches make you play like a team, and always display your unity.
They know that your attitude in the game represents your school and your community.

They help you to "keep your cool"
and always control your anger, because they know that high tensions can only lead to danger.

A good coach shows you that it's okay to lose a hard game.
They show you how to express the loss without expressing any shame.

Coaches let you know it is important to always try to succeed.
You can still be a key factor in the game without showing any greed.

They will help you understand that when on the bench, you should not pout.
How many minutes people play, is not what the game is all about.

Every coach shows their players that they have a specific role.
They help you understand what to do to reach your personal goal.

Because when you are a team,
you must always show support.
Coaches help you keep a positive outlook on and off the court.

Even though you many not like a team,
you must always show respect.
Even just one friendly gesture, may have a snowball effect.

When an official makes a call with which you don't quite agree, keep your thoughts to yourself.
No one benefits from a "T".

A coach also brings laughter to the locker room with a joke or two.
You must show a sense of humor yourself, even when the joke is on you!

No matter what happens,
they show you how to keep your dignity and pride.
It helps to know that through thick and thin they will always be right by your side.

Sportsmanship taught by a coach can not be written in books.
It may even change your view on how the whole world looks.

These qualities will be with you through the happiness and strife.
Sportsmanship truly is a game plan for life.
